

Snowball – Treacherous Scoundrel, Urgently Wanted

Snowball is sly and narrow-minded

Snowball is a cunning and narrow-minded creature. Armed with wit and a silver tongue, he once won the animals' trust, but his true aim was the seizure of power for himself. He disturbed the farm's order, scheming to challenge Napoleon's sole leadership, and was at last driven into exile. His whereabouts remain unknown, yet he continues his covert operations to undermine Animal Farm. Reports of sightings at neighbouring farms persist, and there are rumours that he has tried to slip back into the farm. He lurks in the shadows of every disturbance, deceiving innocent animals. By robbing them of peace and safety, and by spreading fear and disorder, Snowball stands as a traitor and an enemy of the Revolution.

CRIMES OF MALICIOUS AGITATION AND TREASON

Snowball has committed grave offenses against the peace of the farm. He is accused of directing the windmill's destruction, raiding the storehouses by night, and leaking secrets to humans. Witnesses report him spreading fear and distrust, deceiving young animals, and daubing seditious slogans on the walls. These are not random misdeeds, but a deliberate campaign to undermine Animal Farm's ideals and order. Snowball is a traitor whose actions threaten the very survival of the farm.

HERO'S MASK? DARK TRUTH BEHIND THE BATTLE

The "Battle of the Cowshed" hero many animals admire may have been a staged deception. Secret reports claim Snowball was allied with Jones from the start, using the chaos to betray the farm. His so-called wounds were likely faked.

His medals are now revoked. In this new age, records outweigh memory — and the truth must be faced.

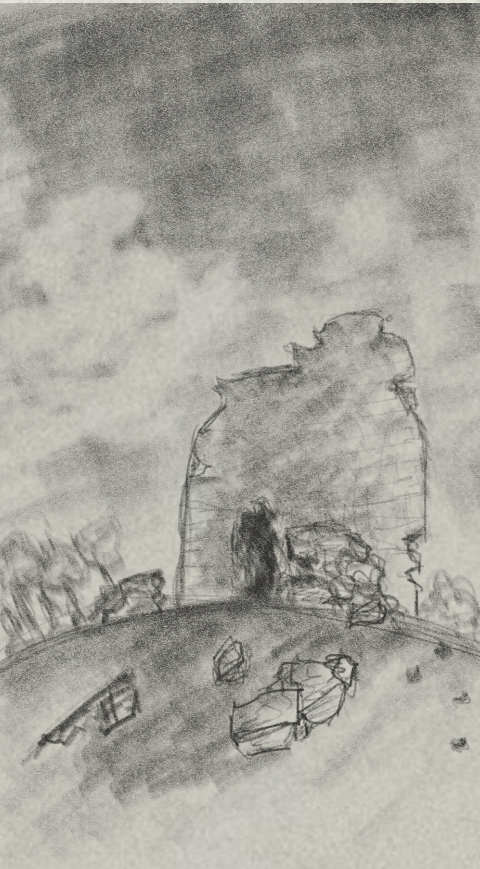

Was the Windmill's Destruction a Planned Crime?

According to eyewitness reports,

Snowball was seen prowling around the windmill at night, carefully inspecting its structure as if seeking its weaknesses. The windmill is the centerpiece of Comrade Napoleon's plan a groundbreaking project destined to bring electricity and grain processing to the farm. Its completion would secure food supplies during the harshest winters, shorten working hours, and greatly improve the welfare of all animals. More than a mere construction, it stands as a symbol of equality, independence, and the united labor of the farm.

To target such a structure is not mere vandalism—it is a calculated assault on our future, an attempt to plunge us back into ignorance and hardship. Snowball's act tramples on the efforts and hopes of every animal. This plot is an affront to the very spirit of Animal Farm, and it must be crushed without hesitation.

REPORT AND BE REWARDED!

Whoever executes Snowball shall receive half a bushel of apples as reward. Furthermore, by order of Comrade Napoleon, the gallant hero will be honoured with the Animal Medal, Second Class. Whoever captures him alive shall be granted one full bushel of apples. Report to the pigs of the farm, or to the Kennel of the Dog Guard. Anonymous reports will also be accepted. Let all animals unite to seize this traitorous pig!

Maintaining Order is Every Animal's Duty

Under Comrade Napoleon's unwavering leadership, order is the duty of every animal and the foundation of our prosperity. It is not merely a set of rules, but a shared responsibility and a commitment to the future. Only through honest labor, mutual respect, and shared purpose can true equality be achieved. Snowball works to divide us, planting distrust and stirring conflict that weakens our unity and threatens the harmony we have built. Such chaos undermines the very principles upon which Animal Farm stands. But order is not granted from above—it is something we build each day through our own will and actions. Now is the time to reaffirm our common values, reject his disruption, and protect the ideals of Animal Farm for the sake of its future and all who live here.
